Language and communication are at the heart of the human experience.

Our method that is the Five C's in teaching foreign language are Communication, Cultures, Connections, Comparisons, and Communities.

The essential areas of focus for language teaching are:

Communication

- The method teaches you to communicate in the target language from the very first lesson.
- You learn Mandarin quickly, by being encouraged to use it in real-life situations, and
- You show what you can DO with Mandarin, not what you KNOW about Mandarin.

Culture

- Understand others' points of view
- Understand Chinese ways of life
- You learn practical expressions - speaking, writing, listening, viewing, and using media

Connections

- Connect your native language background to Mandarin
- Minimize interference in intermediate languages

Comparisons

- Your Native Language VS Target Language
Discover the similarities and differences between the native language and the target language
- Your Country Culture VS Chinese Culture
Look at your home culture with new eyes after learning about Chinese culture.

Communities

- Language clubs, associations with other schools, community service, travel
- Use Mandarin for personal enjoyment: SMS, travel, media, music, film, exchange, personal relationships, etc.
